GUEST SPEAKER for the tree dedication was Rev. James Lafferty, who recalled the meaning of the "Liberty Tree" and how it played an important part in this country's bid for freedom from the crown. At left are spectators and members of the Arts and Service League, and at right are members of the Yoe Band.

The Dedication Of Cameron's 'Liberty Tree'

'AIN'T NO COUNTRY ANYMORE. .'

Yesterday's headlines are yet a little bit older because of TV news' "two-a-days" at 6 and 10.

So. . . .I don't mind residing in the non-daily field, which is fast maturing into mini-magazine readerships by the thousands in suburb, exurbia and non-metro town.

TIME recognizes the relationship of national magazines and newspapers and non-metro newspapers in current problems of second class mailing costs.

Non-dailies are more complete in transition to the offset process, photo-typography and layout experimentation for the simple reason it doesn't cost as much. That is, by comparison, not nearly as much as the medium and metro dailies.

And yet another relationship is being re-established in the print media which will soon share interest in the frequent print-visual ownership of newspaper and television.

Newspapers are reaching the stage where city papers are losing central city circulation and cutting back on regional distribution. And smaller newspapers are adapting newsstand distribution into wider rural coverage and are surrounding the metros.

Net result is metros or newspaper chains own more suburban operations, and are rejoining or refurbishing the roots and the basic instincts of American journalism, all of which began with small publications, one-man shops, handpresses and like that.

Another similarity will develop in the next 10 years when newspapers of various sizes will go into electronic transmission of news, offering the alternative of print or visual distribution. Your Herald has studied the prospects now for about three years.

Metro dailies often own commercial television stations in metro markets.

One of the basic press tenets being restored in the 1970s is a broader sweep of reportage and a more incisive candor, somewhat like the candor younger state and national political figures are finding mandatory in 1976 primary elections.

So again. . . .I find newspapers have more common ground than frequency of publication or circulation figures. That common ground is pony-ing up basic information for a public which is more knowledgable, more cynical and yet more desirous of new direction and new stability than this nation's readers have been since the Depression.

By every token, leadership is fragmentary in Congress, diminished in the White House and reflective in the Judiciary. The media mirrored the dismemberment of an Administration. During uncertain times the Fourth Estate may be the chrysalis to reaffirm the momentum of a great people thinking that "bigger is not necessarily better."

Bigger is definitely not working better. Some kind of point of no return has been reached in newspapers and national politics. It is a curious turn of events, each feeding upon the other, each searching for new roots, new means, new direction.

Newspapers of every size will continue to serve up a diet of words and pictures, however they are transmitted. But the inundation of information is drowning interest in immediacy and stirring public desire for substance.

Substance in no way implies size. It implies quality. Information for a hungry public's right to know substance is the modern print media's role.

Particularly in newspapers, "there ain't no country anymore."

Liberty Tree Has Place In National History

The place of a "Liberty Tree" in the nation's history was pointed out Tuesday morning by Rev. J. E. Lafferty of Rockdale as he spoke at the dedication of a Liberty Tree for Cameron.

The program was sponsored by the Cameron Bicentennial Committee and the Arts and Service League, with the Tejas pecan tree furnished by the Texas Forest Service.

A number of city dignitaries, members of the women's organizations, and the Yoe High band were on hand for the dedication, held in front of the public library. The tree was planted on the west end of the library grounds.

Also participating in the dedication were Supt. Buddy Dulin, MC; Rev. Darryl Proffit, who gave the invocation and benediction; Sharon McCullin, who sang "God Bless America;" Susan Schigut with the poem, "Liberty Tree' and Frank Luecke with the poem "Under the Washington Elm."

The Bicentennial pecan is called a Liberty Tree after the famous elm in colonial Boston under which the first act of public resistance occurred in 1765--the hanging in effigy of a newly-appointed stamp tax officer. This tree was a symbol of resistance to British rule, and many towns planted or dedicated their own Liberty Tress, Lafferty noted.

"This act told the world that the colonies would not have taxation without representation," Lafferty continued. "It was the beginning of a great Nation."

He said the stamp tax officer was so intimidated by the Sons of Liberty that he took their oath and vacated his office. With the Sons of Liberty's action, they committed an act of treason against the crown and made the tree a symbol of freedom. The tree in Boston was dedicated in 1776 and named Liberty Tree.

The elm became a symbol, a rallying point for the cause of liberty, Lafferty pointed out. Other Liberty Trees sprang up in the rest of the colonies.

Lafferty reminded that the dead who have lost their lives in the cause of freedom should never be forgotten, lest they have died in vain. He said the national Bicentennial should produce a new birth of freedom for the nation.

Phone Rates Rising With February Bills

Local telephone rates will go up some 13.5 percent with the February 13 billing following the second reading of an ordinance at the Tuesday city council meeting.

The ordinance also provides for Southwestern Bell to pay its 3 percent franchise tax in semi-annual payments instead of annually.

Council also heard from a group of residents who complained about cows in a small lot belonging to E. L. Kahler at West Main and Colfax. They said fences were bad, letting the cows out and the lot was not large enough for four cows.

The group also complained about sewage running out into the street from a renthouse owned by Kahler in the same neighborhood.

Council authorized the code enforcement officer to work with the city attorney to take necessary action to have the conditions corrected.

Clifford Cason, engineer with Cason Associates, told the council he could produce city maps showing each lot and ownership with other pertinent information for $15,000. Mayor Gene Blake said the city has only old, ragged maps which were drawn up around 1928.

An advisory committee of Councilmen Lawrence Zotz and Lincoln Mondrik will study the proposal and make recommendations.

Coming in for discussion was drainage work on North Harding and oil coat for 8th St. The mayor will also negotiate with Cason on surveying and engineering work for Fannin Ave.

Councilman Mondrik recommended that the area around the city barn be cleaned up and old machinery sold.

The Community Development Agency was authorized to call for bids on pipe for drainage on Harding. The CDA will also handle the sale of lots in the property given the city by the Henderson Estate. It was noted that the property has been filled in and is suitable for building homes.

Council also authorized a study for placing additional fire plugs in the city, and approved payment for six firemen to attend a one-day school at A&M.

Donors , Prospects Asked To Give In Blood Drive

Quota for today's (Thursday) visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile is 73 units and all donors and prospective donors are asked to come to Methodist Fellowship Hall between noon and 6 p.m. to donate a unit and help meet the quota.

Cameron has been lagging behind its quota in previous blood-mobile visits and the blood program availability hinges on whether or not the city reaches quotas.

It doesn't take long and doesn't hurt to give a unit of blood. A short medical history is taken along with blood pressure reading, temperature and a hemoglobin check, before the donor is accepted.

High school students who are 18 may donate along with adults of up to 65 years.

To Moynihan With Respect...

Daniel Patrick Moynihan will be back.

His rational candor, his forceful articulation of U.S. concern with UN disorientation roused controversy in the General Assembly and roused admiration among this people.

Moynihan left the UN ambassadorship to protect his professorial tenure at Harvard, no other reason. Such was his effectiveness in recent UN dialogue, he had been mentioned as a potential Democratic senatorial candidate in New York.

He says "no, he won't run for the Senate," though he says a draft may be acceptable.

It is rare for an academic type in a Republican administration to stir popular support for U. S. commentary in the UN. But he criticised the platitudes and "Third World" attacks on our role in the UN to the consternation of experienced diplomats who would "muddle through" without conflict.

He is remindful of Adlai Stevenson's confrontation of the Soviets in the Cuban Missile Crisis. Stevenson said he would "wait until hell froze over" for an explanation of the Soviet missiles in Cuba. Moynihan reminds of the dramatic expose of hidden microphones in the U. S. Embassy in Moscow by Henry Cabot Lodge.

Moynihan said what needed to be said in terms clear enough for translation in any language. He said the U. S. is tolerant to a fault about forces of the Second and Third Worlds blaming the U. S. and West for crises without offering viable alternatives.

The UN was chartered in 1945 in San Francisco, succeeding a League of Nations founded by Woodrow Wilson and destroyed by the machinations of European powers we salvaged in World War II. The UN Building is in New York City on a site given by the Rockefellers. U. S. morale and economics suffered at least a half-generation of attrition in an Indo-China abandoned by European colonial power.

If ever a society of enormous capacity and idealism has allowed literally dozens of atomized nations to vent bitterness and spleen upon it, we have.

Moynihan said enough is enough. A queasy giant we are, but total exploiters of small nations we are not. Mistaken in Vietnam, we were. Promisers even of several billions to North Vietnam through a defrocked President we are, but patsies for every shill game demanded by emerging nations we are not.

The record is clear. Moynihan dotted the "i's" and crossed some "t's." His voluntary departure spells an end to a nasty era when the UN was a drumhead to rattle our senses.

A successor perhaps will find old allies, old enemies and those nations with or without organizational means and abilities to listen with greater respect.

FML . . .

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

According to an article I read in a newspaper last night, the Internal Revenue Service, now has toll free phones in its offices around the country that any taxpayer can call to get help in fillng out his income tax form. Also, the IRS has a large staff of people hired to give such help in person if you will drop by their office.

However, the article went on to say, from 20 to 50 percent of the advice these IRS people give is wrong. In fact, the IRS has posted signs in its offices warning taxpayers that whatever advice they give there is not legally binding.

As I understand this, it's the last man who checks your return that decides whether you owe any more money, regardless of how many O.K.'s you'd previously gotten from his co-workers. I'm not sure, but he's probably lean and hungry and can't get his mind off of how much money the government needs to meet its bills.

But I got to thinking. Say there are 30,000 of these income tax helpers in IRS offices around the country--maybe two or three times that many if everybody who needs help with his tax form gets waited on--and 50 percent of them make errors on their own tax returns. Isn't this going to put such a burden on the other 50 percent trying to straighten out their fellow workers' errors that nobody's going to have time to make errors for the general public?

The IRS is smart to put up those signs saying it's not responsible for any errors it makes.

What you've got to understand is that the burden of fillling out your income tax forms correctly is on you. The government's position is: "It makes no difference what our employees told you, if it's wrong it's wrong and the skin is off your back, not ours." You've got to be ultra-careful. If the form says subtract line 19 from line 4, the safest way is to do it twice and if you get two different answers, add them together and divide by two, and enter that on line 10. If this is still wrong, you'll hear about it, with penalty and interest added.

Remember, Watergate, Vietnam, inflation, unemployment, the fall of the Alamo, the Battle of Bull Run, and Custer's Last Stand, were taxpayers' errors, not the government's.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Good, Bad News On Finances

There's good news and bad news on the state financial front.

The good news is Comptroller Bob Bullock's revised revenue forecast projecting a $428.2 million cash surplus at the close of the current fiscal period Aug. 31, 1977.

Bad news is Bullock's warning that even the substantial surplus won't prevent a "huge" tax bill next year to finance 1978-79 state governmental appropriations.

Rising oil and gas production taxes account for $207.4 million of the additional revenue estimated by the comptroller. A 23 per cent increase is also anticipated from retail sales taxes.

Bullock's figures indicate there is plenty of growth potential left in the existing tax structure.

Total revenue for 1976-77 is calculated at $12.6 billion, as compared with $10.7 billion for 1974-75.

The changing economy and new federal legislation may bring further drastic changes in revenue forecasts, Bullock noted. Two days after his revised figures were released, a State Supreme Court franchise tax ruling had the effect of raising his estimate another $31 million.

Bullock advised legislators to plan no celebrations of the surplus or dream of any spending sprees.

"The people who write the budget, not the size of the surplus, will determine if we have a tax bill and how big it will be," said Bullock. "It's up to them."

Cut Averted

Risking legislative disapproval, the State Welfare Board voted to reallocate funds previously designated for other purposes to health care programs.

The reallocation apparently prevented a cutback in health care for the poor, aged, blind and disabled.

A hard choice faced the board—spending more for health services than the legislature authorized or reducing programs the legislature intended to continue at previous levels.

Lawmakers last year revoked department authority to transfer appropriated funds from program to program with Legislative Budget Board authority.

Meanwhile, a welfare staff report showed Texas welfare beneficiaries defrauded the state of $6.2 million Nov. 1, 1974-Dec. 31, 1975—mainly through food stamps and Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

Laws Reviewed

The U.S. Justice Department finally approved Texas' new 1976 presidential preference primary law, but rejected single member House of Representatives districts drawn by the legislature for Jefferson, Tarrant and Nueces counties. The 1975 redistricting for several counties was not disturbed.

Secretary of State Mark White Jr. said the state will tell a three-judge federal panel here February 9 that the districts for the three counties were drawn by the legislature and should be left intact. The Justice Department has claimed, for varying reasons, the district lines dilute minority voting strength.

White accused the Justice Department, which must pass on all state and local election matters under the Federal Voting Rights Act, of engaging in "cheap politics" in the districts ruling on Nueces County.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court refused to reconsider its ruling upholding a challenged provision of the Texas corporate franchise tax, freeing $31 million in suspended funds for use.

In a Houston case, the high court held a landowner retains his rights to his property even when it sinks out of sight due to subsidence.

A divided Supreme Court declined to free a 15-year-old Odessa juvenile delinquent, concluding that courts have not held all rights constitutionally assured adult offenders are available to juveniles.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals reversed the trial court in a franchise tax case, holding General Dynamics Corp. should not recover more than $2 million it paid under protest 1968-71.

A helicopter insurance policy must pay off on damages to aircraft damaged in a landing after its crop-spraying was completed for the day, the Supreme Court held. The company had relied on a policy provision denying coverage during spraying operations.

AG Opinions

Atty. Gen. John Hill held the Governor's Criminal Justice Division may not provide funds for buying electronic surveillance equipment to "bug" private corporations.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System has little authority to regulate courses offered by out-of-state schools at U.S. military bases in Texas.
- Meetings of groups of college employees such as the general faculty or athletic council are not covered by the open meetings act.
- An original opinion of last year holding the House Speaker is custodian of House records and agreeing he has power to consult individual representatives before releasing certain information concerning them was correct.

Trial Costly

Impeachment of 229th District Judge O.P. Carrillo and a Judicial Qualifications Commission removal action cost the state nearly $200,000.

The Senate January 23 convicted Carrillo of conspiring to get Duval County funds through a phony equipment rental scheme, ousted him from office and disqualified him from future public service. Carrillo was the first Texas official removed by Impeachment trial since 1917.

Cost to the House of Representatives was estimated at $93,200, to the Senate $64,262 and to JQC (of its separate disciplinary hearing and action) $35,000.

Short Snorts

The state has obtained court judgements for more than $12.5 million in back sales taxes from 6,500 delinquents. Comptroller Bullock asked newspapers to run the names in their areas.

State Board of Education postponed until September implementing a ban on collection of certain student fees.

A new consumers' guide to utility regulation has been prepared for statewide distribution.

Faulk To Kick Off Campaign

John Henry Faulk, nationally known Texas humorist and star performer on television's "Hee Haw," will be at the Waco Convention Center Feb. 16 to entertain Central Texans and to kick off the local campaign of Representative Lane Denton of Waco who is runnng for the Railroad Commission.

Faulk, often compared to Will Rogers whose political satire made him one of the American's outstanding humorists, usually recounts veral ancedotes of "Pea Vine" Jefferson on the Hee Haw show.

Tickets for the 7 p.m. performance may be obtained by calling 817-756-4611 or at the door

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

BILL FRESS NEWSMEN FROM UNION GAG RULE

Senator R. L. Hruska (Nebr.) ". . .It is with pleasure that I join Senators Fannin Thurmond, and Laxlt in cosponsoring S.2712, a bill which would amend the National Labor Relations Act to provide for freedom of choice in labor relations for journalists. . .

"(This) proposal is designed to guarantee the first amendment rights of journalists, both in the print and electronic media.

"S.2712 would exempt persons employed as newspaper and magazine columnists or radio and television commentators and critics from the National Labor Relations Act. . .

"This matter has been befor the courts. Commentator William F. Buckley, together with the National Review, Inc., brought suit against the American Federation of Radio and Television Artists -- AFL-CIO--challenged the constitutionality of the requirement that a journalist join and pay dues to the union and maintain membership in good standing or be denied his right to comment on public affairs. . .

"The plaintiffs were successful in the Federal district court, but were reversed in the Second Circuit Court of Appeals. The Supreme Court denied a petition for a writ of certiorari (Refused to hear the case). . .

"Clearly, Mr. President, the Congress never intended that this Government should license either the press or individual journalists. Yet that is precisely what the present situation amounts to . . ."

Senator Paul J. Fannin (Ariz.)". . .By virture of collective bargaining agreements journalists must join a union in order to be employed or to retain their jobs as commentators. . .

"If a strike is called and union members must refrain from crossing the picket line or are otherwise prevented from working or speaking on pain of forefeiture, a journalist cannot voice his opinions, present his analysis, or express his views on matters of public importance and interest occuring in the world . . .The chilling effect on journalists is substantial. . .

"In my opinion, the Supreme Court decision--or failure to decide, since the Court refused to hear the case--was a blow to free speech and free press in America. . ."

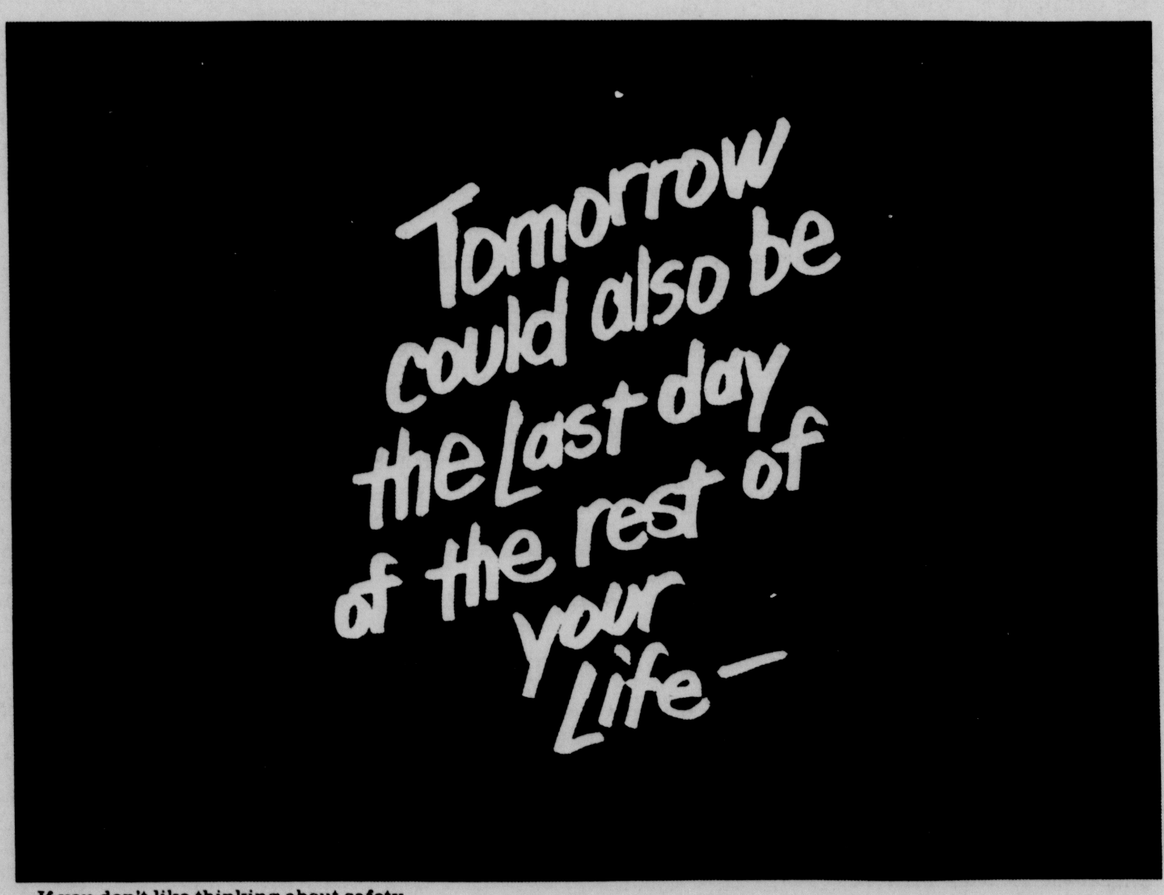
CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Passage of S. 2712 should be high on the list of bills to be passed by this Congress. No picket line should be stronger than the individuals right to free speech.



If you don't like thinking about safety, think where you might be without it.

Interest On GI Loans Down

The maximum interest rate on GI home loans was reduced from 9 to 8.75 percent effective January 5, 1976, Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Direcor, announced today.

An increased supply of mortgage money was attributed to this first reduction in GI loan interest rates since last March, Coker said. The decrease was agreed upon jointly with Department of Housing and Urban Development. The reduced rate also applies to FHA home loans.

The 9 percent interest ceiling rate on multifamily housing mortgage loans does not apply to VA since the agency guarantees only single family home mortgage loans, including condominiums.

The peak interest rate of 9.5 percent during the 31-year history of the VA home loan guaranty program was reached in August 1974. This is an 27th change in GI home interest rates since this program began in June 1944.

For a veteran buying a home with a $30,000 GI loan, the quarter percent decrease in the VA interest rate could mean a savings of about $2,00 over the life of a 30 year loan, Coker said.

A Weekly Report Of Agri-Business News

Farm-facts

Compiled From Sources
Of The Texas Department of Agriculture
John C. White, Commissioner

It's Time To Begin . . . Another Sweet Story . . . Good News Continues . . . Lamb Feeding Declines.

If you live in the northern part of the state you'll find it difficult to believe but it is cotton planting time in Texas. Farmers in the Rio Grande Valley can begin this week to plant their 1976 cotton crop.

A "sizeable" increase is expected in the Valley counties this year compared to 1975. Statewide, it's now anticipated there will be a 10 per cent increase in cotton acres this year compared to a year ago. An acreage of 4,800,000 is now projected by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, based on Jan. 1 planting intentions.

Harvest of the 1975 crop in Texas is now virtually complete. The crop last year was one of the lowest on record due to a cut in acres and extreme weather conditions.

Prospects for profits from cotton this year are now brighter than when the 1975 crop was planted.

A SWEET STORY can be found in the 1975 honey crop. Texas' honey production for last year was up 25 per cent from 1974. This past year, a total of 12,896,000 pounds of honey were produced in the state.

Total value of the honey and beeswax in 1975 is set at $6,151,000; this compares with $5,885,000 in 1974.

However, there is a "bittersweet" side of the story, too. The average price per pound for honey in 1975 was 45.9 cents per pound, which is only .2 of a cent above the 1974 figure.

THE INCREASE IN CATTLE ON FEED is good news for the cow-calf producer, the feedlot operator, and the consumer.

As of Jan. 1, there were 1,882,000 cattle and calves on feed in Texas. This is up 42 per cent above a year ago, and it is 3 per cent more than a month ago.

The same situation is seen throughout the nation. In the 23 major cattle feeding states cattle on feed are up 28 percent from a year ago.

Feedlot operators in Texas report they plan to market 1,050,000 cattle between now and March 31. This would be 20 per cent higher than marketed during the January - March quarter a year ago.

Consumers can expect a good supply of fed beef for the next several months.

SHEEP AND LAMB FEEDING IN TEXAS as of Jan. 1 is at the lowest figure in 10 years.

Sheep and lambs on feed as of Jan. 1 in the state totaled only 188,000 head. This is down 8 per cent from a year ago.

Sheep and lambs on feed are those intended for slaughter being fed a ration of grain or other concentrates or on succulent pastures and expected within the next three months to produce a carcass that will grade good or better.

Nationwide, the same downward trend in sheep and lamb feeding is reported.

Sheep and lambs on feed as of Jan. 1 in 26 states are down 9 per cent from a year ago.

Research Attacks Horn Fly

An attack from within has proven to be an effective strategy in the battle against the enemy that first invaded the United States about 1890 and causes a loss of many millions of dollars per year: the horn fly.

The horn fly is one of the most destructive insects of the livestock industry. Uncontrolled, the bloodsucking pest may attack cattle in numbers of three and four thousand per cow, reduce the output of dairy cattle as much as 20 percent, and prevent weight gains of beef cattle by as much as one-half pound per day.

A multidisciplined U. S. Department of Agriculture research team is currently conducting a pilot program to study the feasibility of eliminating the horn fly from an isolated area. As part of the program, the team of USDA's Agricultural Research Service (ARS) scientists from the U. S. Livestock Insects Laboratory here ran a six-week test at Kalaupapa peninsula, Molokai, Hawaii, to study the effectiveness of mehtoprene administered to the drinking water of cattle in suppressing the horn fly.

Adding methoprene, an insect growth regulator, to the drinking water of cattle effectively reduces the adult population of the horn fly and prepares the way for the release of sterile males which mate with the remaining fertile females. These females then lay infertile eggs which fail to hatch, further reducing the insect population.

Adding the growth regulator to the drinking water has two major advantages over conventional dermal applications: the cows do not have to be rounded up for treatment, and the sterile males released later do not die from the insecticide residues on the cattle before they have a chance to mate.

DEALERS VISIT--Wilburn Beckhusen, center, and Frank Garey, right, both of Buckholts, visit with W. I. McKay, president of Acco Seed, at the Acco Key Dealer meeting held in Omaha, Nebraska on Jan. 9-10. Acco dealers from all over the US met with Acco management personnel to review company procedures, sales programs, hybrid selection and other business concerns.

Agreements Reached On Brucellosis Regulations

WACO

Texas Farm Bureau President Carrol Chaloupka said agreements reached in a meeting with Secreatary of Agricultural Earl Butz "seem to satisfy many of the objections of the Texas cattle industry to U. S. Department of Agricultural Brucellosis regulations."

Chaloupka met in Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 with Secretary Earl Butz and animal health officials of the USDA to try to work out a settlement on the Brucellosis program in Texas. At present, the Texas Animal Health Commission is complying with federal regulations in response to a court order, thus avoiding for the time being, a quarantine on Texas cattle.

"USDA officials agreed to bring program of calfhood vaccination in areas where Brucellosis is a problem," the TFB president said. "They also agreed to have the American Academy of Sciences monitor the USDA Brucellosis research program provided that fund s are made available."

The state farm leader said USDA also agreed to "explore the possible release of the 45/20 vaccine to complement Strain 19 vaccine which is presently in use. The 45/20 vaccine is safer to handle, can be used safely in adult cattle, but requires annual vaccinations. Strain 10 vaccine has been shown to provide protection for at least seven years.

Chaloupka was accompained to the Washington meeting by Robert A. Faseler of Hondo, chairman of the TFB animal health committee; Warren Newberry of Waco, TFB executive director; and Joe Fields, Waco, radio/television news director for the farm organization.

Under the court order in Texas, which is in effect indefinitely, the Animal Health Commission now requires the S-branding of cattle exposed to Brucellosis to prevent them from being diverted from shipment to slaughter, and also requires tighter controls of cattle entering brucellosis-free areas of the state.

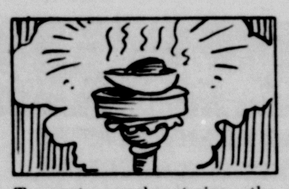
USDA officials said after the injunction was issued that they would continue cooperating with Texas in carrying out a Brucellosis eradication program, including the payment of indemnities to owners of infected cattle.

The Texas Animal Health Commission will meet Feb. 19 to propose regulations that are expected to comply with Uniform Methods and Rules of USDA. At that time the Commission is expected to announce a hearing to be set for March 30. The Commission has ten days after that to act on any objections. Then it can type up the regulations in the form of a proclamation which would establish the effective date of the new regulations.

Animal Ag Confab

The 1976 Texas Animal Agriculture Conference will be held April 8-10 at the J. Earl Rudder Conference Center on the Texas A&M University campus.

Main feature of the conference will be five production short courses--beef cattle, dairy, horse, swine, and pastures and forage. Exhibits and a trade show will also be features, points out L. A. Maddox, beef cattle specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.



To get nearly twice the amount of juice from a lemon, soak it for 10 or 15 minutes in hot water.

Check Fields For Greenbugs

Damaging greenbug populations have been found in small grain fields in Williamson and Milam Counties. Small grain producers should make weekly checks in their fields for greenbug populations.

It is not possible to check small grain fields for greenbug damage from the front seat of a pickup. By the time greenbug damage is noticed over a large area of the field, excessive damage may have already taken place.

In addition, each field should be checked separately. Do not assume that if you have damaging populations in one field that all your fields should be treated. Greenbug populations will differ from field to field.

When checking a small grain field for greenbugs make at least ten checks at ten different locations in the field. Each check should consist of counting the number of greenbugs in one foot of row. Greenbugs will be found on the undersides of leaves and around the stem close to the ground.

Never use Sevin to control greenbugs! Sevin will not kill greenbugs but will kill all the beneficial insects. The following insecticides are effective in controlling greenbugs in wheat and oats: dimethoate, malathion, methyl parathion, and parathion. Dimethoate is cleared for use in wheat only. There is a 15 day waiting period before grazing may be resumed when methyl parathion, parathion, and dimethoate are used. The waiting period for malathion is 7 days.

USDA Asks Waiver Of Scabies Dip Loss

A change in federal regulations will require cattle owners to waive all claims against the federal government when their cattle are treated for scabies, repots the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) explained that cattle infested with or exposed to scabies mites are routinely treated with a USDA - permitted pesticide dip. This must be done under APHIS supervision or control, before the animals can be certified for interstate shipment.

Occasionally, when losses result from such treatments cattle owners have filed damage claims against the government.

Search On For Rural Texas Hero

Some deserving individual who risked his or her life to save another will receive the 1976 Rural Heroism Award sponsored by the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council.

The council annually sponsors the award program to help promote safety in rural areas, announces Wayne Keese, agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who serves as council secretary.

All nominations must be submitted by Feb. 21 to the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, Box 489, Waco, TX 76703.

The recipient of the award will be presented an inscribed plaque at the annual meeting of the Texas Safety Association at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel in Dallas on March 22.

Wheat Crop Has Rough Go

By Bill McCutchen

The wheat crop has had a rough go of it this season with drouth being the main problem.

Now, leaf rust is evident in many fields, greenbugs are causing economic damage in some, drouth is still a factor, and many fields are in need of a topdress of nitrogen.

Drouth has been a problem, but more fields are suffering from a combination of these factors and action must be taken immediately if a wheat crop is to be harvested.

We can't do much about the drouth, but greenbugs can be controlled if they are at economic levels and an ample topdress of nitrogen can be applied.

It is also past time to remove livestock from wheat pastures. Grazing past Feb. 1 usually causes yield reduction and is much more likely to do so when the wheat is already stressed.

Pecan Spraying

It is time to start thinking about spraying pecans with dormant oil for the control of obscure scale and the pecan phylloxera. For best results apply dormant oil in late winter or early spring, just before the buds begin to crack. Dormant oils should be applied when the temperature is between 40 and 65 degrees F. The rate at which dormant oil should be applied is 3 1/2 gallons of a 97% oil mulsion/100 gallons of water or 3/4 pint of 97% oil emulsion/3 gallons of water.

Special Session On Ag Loans Set At Credit School

A special session on making agricultural loans will be one of the highlights of the 24th Farm and Ranch Credit School for Commercial Bankers at Texas A&M University, Feb. 9-11.

Different agricultural enterprises require specific analysis and consideration, so four major loan areas will be examined at the school, points out Dr. Richard Trimble, economist in management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. These will include loans for crops and machinery, cow-calf operations, feedlots, and dairying.

A panel of bankers will discuss each of these types of loans and will provide "seasoned advice" for anyone in the business of making loans, notes Trimble.

Another special feature of the school will be a session for bank directors. A bank officer and several bank directors will be on hand to look at the legal responsibilities of directors of country banks. They will also offer some insight as to how directors can improve the profit position of their banks.

Rounding out the school will be a session devoted to improving working relationships with bank examiners.

G-522 Old reliable. The workhorse. A high yielder wherever it's planted. That's Funk's G-522, a sorghum hybrid that fits into any planting program and adjusts to virtually any soil condition.

Watch for G-522 to stand strong when winds and moisture work against you. Count on its big broad leaves to soak up maximum sunlight and to shade out competing weeds and grass. Result? An all-season performer that really delivers high yields, come rain or long drouths.

And at harvest, you'll like the way its large, semi-open heads of rich yellow grain dry down fast and thresh clean 'n easy.

So when you're looking to improve your profit outlook, plant this medium-late hybrid. Let the ol' reliable put another good year in the bank.

ROME

If the present rate of work continues, Rome could have a subway system equal to the Paris Metro in less than 150 years. In a city where traffic chaos is a byword, work began 11 years ago to build an 8.6 miles stretch of subway linking some of Rome's most heavily populated suburbs with the center and enable thousands of people to travel to work more easily.

BUENOS AIRES

Once a sacred animal, the vicuna is on the verge of extinction. But South American governments are working to save it. Survivors of the herds slaughtered by poachers for their fine soft wool have taken refuge in the Andes foothills of Argentina, Chile, and Peru. and on the Bolivian high plateau 14,000 feet above sea level.

BELFAST

With mounting evidence that the outlawed Irish Republican Army is preparing a major bombing campaign, police on both sides of the Irish border are working against time to seal off the guerrillas supply routes for explosives.Cooperation between Northern Ireland's Royal Ulster Constabulary and the Irish republic's police is closer than ever before in the drive against the guerrillas, especially along the straggling 360 mile border.

JERUSALEM

Israel may face early general elections to determine the future of the nation's views on Middle East peace moves and the future of the Palestinians. Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin is already reported to have considered bringing the elections forward from November next year because of sharp policy differences within the government and his own dominant Labor Party.

Food Stamp Amendment Proposed

A proposed amendment to the Food Stamp Program regulations would allow the testing of several new administrative procedures which could have national applicability.

The procedures which could be tested include photo identification cards, countersigned coupons, retrospective accounting periods, client monthly reporting systems and other changes which could lead to more efficient program management.

The proposed amendment outlines how states may request waivers of current regulations and requires that notice of all approved projects must be given at least 30 days prior to the test.

Actress Jane Fonda Has Political Career

By Bruce Russell

HOLLYWOOD

Reuter--Jane Fonda, giving all of her spare time these days to the policial campaign of her activist husband, Tom Hayden, says she now has three careers--actress, politician, and mother.

Her dressing room on the movie set where she is making a social satire drawing its title from the U. S. grade school primer "Dick and Jane," has been turned into a fund-raising office for Hayden's campaign.

Hayden, one of the defendents in the "Chicago Seven" trials, is tryng to get the Democratic Party nomination for the U. S. Senate seat for California in the primary elections next June.

While hairdressers brush her rolled hair and wardrobe women touch up her makeup, Miss Fonda, 38, a key figure in the movement to end the Vietnam War, rattles off her thoughts about her husband's campaign.

"I think its absoutely possible for Tom to win," she says. "Absolutely possible."

His opponent in the primary will be the incumbent senator, John Tunney, son of former world heavyweight champion Gene Tunney.

Political observers believe Tunney may be in trouble but they are not as convinced as Miss Fonda is that it will be Hayden who upsets him in the primary.

Miss Fonda, mother of two young children, says an experienced actress can always find time during shooting to do other work.

"Movies consist mainly of waiting," she says. "The skill is simply knowing how to conserve your energy so that you are ready to go when the director is ready for you.

"So I have meetings, I do fund-raising on the phone and I write letters to people."

Miss Fonda says: "This country is in a crisis. Its a a moment of enormous importance in American history. The country could go one way or another. It could swing to the extreme right."

She adds: "What Watergate means is that the almost Facist apparatus put together by the administration of Richard Nixon was exposed but it has not yet been dismantled.

Miss Fonda is at present has a suit against the federal government charging the CIA, FBI, and members of the Nixon administration with interfering with her constitutional rights to free speech.

Explaining why she and her husband have gone in for more convention forms of political battle, she says she feels that by 1972 the anti-war movement had shifted from street rallies into the political arena.

"We realized that there had been such a change in the policial climate that it was possible for the people who had represented those movements in the decase of the sixties to run for political office and win," she said.

Miss Fonda with her fanatical views on the war was not exactly a popular figure around Hollywood during the 60s. The Hollywood woman's Press Association gave her its "sour apple" award for ruining the image of the film city.

SMU Classical Guitarists Will Perform At SWU

GEORGETOWN

Five guitarists from Southern Methodist University in Dallas will be presented in concert in the Alma Thomas Theatre at Southwestern University on Thursday, Feb. 19, at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend this classicial guitar concert.

Robert Guthrie, internationally - known classical guitarist, is chairman of the guitar department at Southern Methodist University and recently named affiliate artist with the McDowell Fine Arts Association of West Virginia, sponsored by the U. S. Steel Foundation, Inc.

He will spend a portion of the year performing for a wide variety of community groups. A graduate of the North Carolina School of the Arts, Guthrie has studied with Jesus Silva (protege of Segovia), Alirio Diaz and Caledonia Romera.

The guitarists who will be performing works of Duarte, Ponce, Guiliani, Milan, Bach, Walton, Frescobaldi, Sor, and Granados are Dan Hodan, Bill Gallerstein, Roger Bennett, Randy Nye and David Kennedy. In addition to their studies with Guthrie, these guitarists have studied with Jesus Silva, Jose Tomas, and Oscar Ghiglia.

Gardening Calender Available

For the home gardener who wants a "day-to-day" plan to follow throughout the year, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has the answer--a Garden Calendar."

"The new calendar is a daily guide that lets the gardener know when to do what for a successful garden," points out Sam Cotner, horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

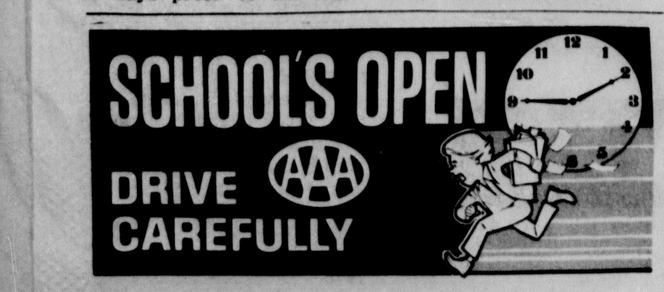
"The calendar also features a list of recommended vegetable varieites for Texas along with a planting guide which provides such useful information as row and plant spacings, time required for crops to mature, and expected yields."

Although the calendar is designed mainly for Southeast and South Central Texas, Cotner explains that the information features can be used in other areas by simply adjusting planting dates to the average freezing dates in different regions of the state.

"The Garden Calendar deals primarily with vegetabel gardening but also includes timely hints on growing fruit and nuts, shrubs, flowers, and lawn grasses," adds the Texas A&M University System horticulturist.

The calendar is available from the Department of Agricultural Communications at Texas A&M University for 25 cents a copy. Anyone interested in reviewing the calendar may do so at any county Extension office.

"Since the key to a successful garden often hinges on doing the right thing at the right time, the Garden Calendar should be just the thing for most home gardeners," believes Cotner.



A HONEY OF A VALENTINE--Perfect for a Valentine's Day party, this TAP Honey Chocolate Cake contains a rich serving of honey instead of sugar as a sweetener. SPORT SPOTLIGHT

By FORREST GUESS

WAITING AND. . .

Joe Smitherman is waiting and still thinking about where he plans to attend college. He is very much interested in Baylor University and hopes to play there.

There should be little question on his qualifications. He is above all the honors associated with athletics in that he is a dedicated individual.

To list a few of his honors for the past two years becomes quite a task. In 1974 he was named to the All-District offense and defense teams. In that same year he was named to the All-Centex offense and defense team.

In district track in 1975 he claimed 3rd in district in the discus. He was also named All-District in baseball as a first baseman.

In 1975 he was named All-District offense and defense, All-Centex offense and defense, and All-Super Centex offense.

And to top all honors Smitherman was named as an All-State offensive player and All-State defensive player.

Let's hope Baylor signs Smitherman.

Smitherman said, "I'm still hoping for Baylor but I am going to visit Blinn Jr. College Tuesday."

NEW YEAR. . .

Since the New Year the Yoe girls have found their season much improved. Coming back from the holidays the Yoe JV and varsity stand 4-3 in basketball action.

The next game for the Yoe girls will be in the Lexington Tournament scheduled for Friday and Saturday.

In the tourney the Yoe girls (varsity only) will face Snook at 10:15 p.m. in the first round play. The first game of the Tournament will see Somerville and Lexington and following Cameron will be Dime Box and Stephen F. Austin at 11:30. Elgin faces Lexington freshmen at 12:45.

Coach linda Puckett said, "I think we have a good chance. We have beat Lexington before and Lexington has beaten Snook."

POOLE SAID. . .

"Tuesday against Leander we did not have a real good game especially the first half.

"We weren't playing real good defense and our press fell apart.

The second half, however, we did a better job and outscored them 82-60, 32-10 the third period.

"Ronnie Bennett had a fine game both offensively and defensively.

"We showed real character coming back to take them and everyone was able to play. Leander is much improved this year.

"Friday against Westlake we had a better game and beat Westlake 59-44.

"They ran a tight zone defense and actually trippled Ronnie Bennett, but this left David Kornegay open and he did a good job rebounding and scored 19 points.

"Jafus White, Dennis Hollas, and David Kornegay helped out on steals as they had 5, 3, and 2 respectively. Ronnie Bennett had 13 rebounds with Jafus White; with 10 and David Kornegay with 9.

"We outrebounded them 44-18 and were able to pick up numerous turnovers on the press.

"We have been fortunate enough to outrebound most of our opponents and that plus our good defense and press have helped our cause tremendously.

"The big problem this year has been our turnovers, which we had only 5 in the first half and did much better; however, for the year we have had 241 for an average of about 13 per game--surprisingly for the year.

"We are shooting 40% of our field goals as a team but only 50% of our free throws. Mike White leads the team in steals with 65 and Ronnie Bennett leads in rebounds with 277.

White And Bennett Sign With A&I

Jafus White and Ronnie Bennett signed letters with national college division champion Texas A&I University. Both White and Bennett were Class AA All-State preformers. Bennett has had All-State honors for his defensive efforts for two years.

Texas A&I University is in the Lone Star Football Conference.

Bennett, 6'6", 220 pounds, tight end and defensive end, has also been named to the All-Centex team on offense and defense in 1974 and 1975 and named All-Centex Defensive Player of the Year.

He has also been chosen as an All-District player in district 23-AA on both offense and defense for the past two years.

Bennett's talent exceeds the grid and last year he was named to the All-Region Basketball team. The Yoemen lost in the finals of the Regional Basketball Tournament to Kountze.

White, 6'3", 190 pounds, is more versatile than a 2-ton truck. And also had more moves than the Mayflower Moving Van. His positions included tailback and safety, and he was named to the All-State offensive team and second squad defensive team.

He was also named All-Centex safety two years and was on the All-Centex team as a tailback last season.

White has been named as an All-District player for district 23AA for three years as a safety and as an offensive back last year.

For the 1975 season White scored 66 points and had three kickoff returns for touchdowns. White carried for 57 yards per carry and rushed for a total of 695 yards. He had five interceptions.

White also was named to the All-District basketball team for two years and to the All-Regional team. He was a member of the sprint relay team that won second in the state last year.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

By Vern Sanford

Cold, wintry winds drive many anglers off wind-swept waters and back to the warmth of the home.

Some fishermen, not to be denied, tie to the heated fishing docks to be found on most large reservoirs, nearly all lakes and on many sizeable rivers. Here they find comfortable chairs, live bait, specially food-treated water that tempt fish into this comfortable setting and a smorgasbord of fish-loving delicacies.

What the angler sees is fish. Fish for the table is his goal and in this particular setting it could be either perch, crappie, white bass, smallmouth, an occasional lunker largemouth black or a bewhiskered blue cat.

So, before you decide not to go fishing simply because the weather is incliment--rainy, snowly, too hot or too cold--give a thought to fishing those enclosed docks.

There you can enjoy armchair comfort at its very best, including radio and tv, a coffee shop, a cold drink stand and more ofetn than not a clean, well-stocked quick-lunch restaurant.

If you want to be "where the fun is," coupled with fishing success, and a comfortable day or night of fantastic angling, give the enclosed fishing barge serious consideration.

It's an outing you will thoroughly enjoy!

Troy Downs Milano, 61-45

In the girls game Troy won 58-53. Pat Wauson produced 34 points for Troy.

In the junior varsity game the Trojans outpaced the Milano JV 49-40.

We all know the shock of losing something we value. A misplaced book or valuable papers — even a treasured heirloom — gone astray can frustrate us for hours or even days. Diligent search often ends the mystery, but the memory of our exasperation lingers.

Yet while the loss of something material is easily grasped, many of us never realize that we may be missing important intangibles . . . like the secret of a richer, more satisfying life.

This search needn't take long, though. Millions find the faith that fulfills — every Sunday in church.

So can you.
